

REGEN PROJECTS

Dambrot, Shana Nys. "13ThingsLA: November 5." 13 Things LA (November 4, 2025)
[online]

Marilyn Minter, After Guston, #16 (Mouth), 2024 (Regen Projects)

We're writing this week's art calendar poised on a moment of hope, but you will be reading it on the other side of clarity gained, for better or worse. It's a good thing art is a long game. Check into some chimerical artistry founded in resilience, care, and flexibility—with a healthy dose of humor and mystery to keep things grounded—at Regen Projects, 7811 Gallery, MOCA, Night Gallery, Von Lintel Gallery, Joshua Treenial/BOXO Projects, Charlie James Gallery, Jeffrey Deitch, Nazarian/Curcio, Marian Goodman Gallery, Luis De Jesus Los Angeles, 1301pe, and homeLA on location. Plus as a reminder, to mark its 50th anniversary, this whole weekend is free at the currently gold-festooned (in a good way) Norton Simon Museum.

REGEN PROJECTS

Marilyn Minter, Lizzo (Odalisque), 2023–25 (Regen Projects)

Marilyn Minter opens Thursday, November 6, 6-8pm at Regen Projects. Minter lures us back into her mirror-world of surface, glamour, and hyperchromatics, only to crack it wide open once again. Her new enamel-on-panel and enamel-on-wood paintings cross three intertwined series—large-scale compromised celebrity portraits (including images of Jane Fonda and artists Nick Cave, Cindy Sherman, and Jeff Koons), a cohort of art-historically inclined reclining figures updated for the selfie age (especially Lizzo in lingerie and heels), and a razor-sharp post-Pop suite that riffs on the painterly motifs of Philip Guston. In each case the alluring works shimmer with high-gloss seduction, even as the imagery unsettles and even repulses—on the razor's edge between desire and delusion. On view in Hollywood through December 20; regenprojects.com. —SND

Marilyn Minter, After Guston, #23 (Lightbulb), 2024 (Regen Projects)